

Obviously the most common way of taking medicines is by mouth (orally) and the most common form in which it is given is capsule or tablet. The everyday life makes it hard to remember the exact time of using medicines, especially the older you get, the more routine it will become, and you may even forget whether you have taken your medicine or not.

Mainly, people under medication need to complete their treatment duration. Besides, most of these people are not able to distinguish the right medicines or remember the exact schedule of them. For so many patients, it is vital that they take their medicines on time and properly and in case of skipping them, it may cost the patient's life. In this regard, it is important to have an instrument to organize the tablets and capsules for the patient.

Another point is that if patients have the drugs organized with them, it will be easy to remember taking them.

So we decided to produce Pill Reminder, a simple lightweight instrument with four sections for morning, noon, afternoon and night which helps the user remember taking their medicines.

These containers are available in 7 different colors for 7 days of the week that can be of help to the user to organize tablets and capsules of each day.
